Product	Explanation
What is a hybrid cloud	A hybrid cloud—sometimes called a cloud hybrid—is a computing environment that combines an on-premises datacenter (also called a private cloud) with a public cloud, allowing data and applications to be shared between them. Some people define hybrid cloud infrastructure to include "multicloud" configurations where an organization uses more than one public cloud in addition to their on-premises datacenter. Structure that has a capability to link to a hybrid clouding solution
A private cloud/ on-premises cloud	is a cloud computing environment dedicated to a single organization. Any cloud infrastructure has underlying compute resources like CPU and storage that you provision on demand through a self-service portal. In a private cloud, all resources are isolated and in the control of one organization.
In a public cloud	external cloud providers deliver the resources as a fully managed service. For example, applications require computing resources like internal memory, data storage, and CPU.
Back-End Infrastructure	The backend refers to devices that respond to ending user activities or requests, for example, routers, network servers, and storage servers
Infrastructure capabilities	infrastructure must be capable to natively integrate with a public cloud and current private cloud deployment at TNPA
Network Requirement	networking requirements to be specified by supplier and to be supplied by Transnet
Meet the requirement	supplier responses matches all requirements in scope of work
Partial Information	supplier response does not match all the requirements as specified in the scope of work
Virtual Data Centers (VDCs)	A resource allocation unit that aligns with the structure of an enterprise or organization, which can provide functions such as user management, product definition, resource provisioning, etc.
Cloud management platform/Cloud management software	A platform that provides cloud service and resource operation management and system O&amp;M management.
Unified platform/ Unified cloud platform	Unified platform can integrate existing environment such as TNPA infrastructure, public cloud provider environment, and provide unified entry portal, unified user experience.
Extensible platform	The platform is deployed on the basis of loosely coupled architecture, which can quickly expand.

Virtual Machine (VM)	It is a virtual computing server composed of vCPU, memory, disk, etc. It is easy to obtain, flexible and expandable, and can be used on demand.
Migration specialists	Individual/Engineer who has sufficient knowledge, experience to implement data migration.
Spine-Leaf architecture	Spine-Leaf network architecture is leaf ridge network. Architecture has a Spine layer and a Leaf layer, including spine switches and leaf switches. Each blade switch is connected to all ridge switches, and the ridge switches are not directly connected to each other, forming a topology called full-mesh.
Cloud Management Capability	It provides ability to manage self-built cloud resources in a unified manner, including tenant self-service interface, cloud service management and service catalog, metering, automatic configuration of computing, storage and network resources, operation and maintenance monitoring of cloud services and cloud resources, and operation command analysis.
Cloud Function Capability	It provides services to help users quickly apply for computing, storage, and network resources, implementing quick service rollout.
Software Defined Network (SDN)	Software-Defined Networking (SDN) is an approach to networking in which control is decoupled from hardware and given to a software application called a controller.
WORM	It's a form of data protection. After information is written, it can be read, but it cannot be modified.
High level design	It is design process of overall scheme and overall technical approach to complete a large project. The design of system as a whole, that is, in addition to software design, it also includes equipment selection, network, security, and performance, corresponding to system requirements.
Low-level design	It is process of refining and extending overall design of a system or component to achieve degree that design is sufficiently perfect and can be implemented.

Specifically, the production site located in Queens Warehouse which service production, development and QAS workload environments and the disaster recovery site located in Transnet Port Terminal straddle workshop which provides disaster recovery virtual machines for the production workloads:

The features of this environment are available as per below:

Unified Cloud Platform

- A unified cloud platform can manage production data center and disaster recovery data center, reducing operation and maintenance cost.
- A unified cloud platform can manage computing resource pool, network resource pool and storage resource pool to achieve resource sharing and maximize capacity utilization.

Storage replication-based disaster recovery solution

- Tenant-level disaster recovery provides self-help disaster recovery service, tenants choose Virtual Machine (VM) to protect as they want.
- The cloud platform issues instructions to storage to protect data and directly replicate data between storages to ensure high performance and security of data replication.

3.2 "TO BE" Compute and Infrastructure Architecture:

Bidders are required to design and implement a solution based on an on-premises architecture as per Figure 2 below, which enables unified management and deployment of the data center to ensure its consistency and scalability.

3.3 Breakdown of Scope of Requirements

The project involves providing, delivering, and setting up an on-premises infrastructure at a Transnet nominated data center facility. This includes migrating from previous on-premises infrastructure to the newly commissioned infrastructure, as well as providing technical support and maintenance for a period of 36 months post implementation. Refer to Annexure F for a detailed Scope of Requirements.

Hardware: All hardware components required to implement an on-premises cloud infrastructure i.e. servers, storages, switches, etc.

Software: Software licenses for any new software components proposed that Transnet is not licensed to utilize i.e. cloud management software, backup software, migration tool software etc.

- 1.2 The NIP obligation applicable to suppliers in respect of sub-paragraphs 1.1 (a) to 1.1 (c) above will amount to 30% of the imported content whilst suppliers in respect of paragraph 1.1 (d) shall incur 30% of the total NIPP obligation on a pro-rata basis.
- 1.3 To satisfy the NIPP obligation, the DTI would negotiate and conclude agreements such as investments, joint ventures, sub-contracting, licensee production, export promotion, sourcing arrangements and research and development (R&D) with partners or suppliers.
- 1.4 A period of seven years has been identified as the time frame within which to discharge the obligation.
